SENATOR WALSH.

Governor Northen Appoints Augusta's Editor to Colquitt's Seat.

ALL GEORGIA APPLAUDS THE CHOICE.

A Sterling Democrat, an Able Man, and Universally Esteemed.

THE HONOR IS PROMPTLY ACCEPTED

Colonel Walsh Expresses His Appreciation and States His Position.

HE STANDS SQUARELY ON THE PLATFORM

To Aid in Carrying Out the Pledges Made to the Country His Efforts Will Be Directed.

It is Senator Walsh from Georgia.

Yesterday morning Governor Northen rendered his decision favoring the high office to the editor-statesman, the grand Georgian who has been the forefront in all the battles of democracy for the last thirty years.

In honoring Patrick Walsh the governor honored himself and honored Georgia. The appointment is one which is sure to meet with the enthusiastic and hearty approval of all the people of all parts of the state. It is the appointment of a man in every way qualified to step into the high place, of a man who possesses the experience in public affairs and the grasp of national questions necessary to one in such a high position, and, more than all, it is the appointment of a man who stands squarely with the people, who believes with them that the highest duty of a public official is to represent the interests of the people, and who believes that it is duty of the senators and representatives to see that the pledges made by the democratic party shall be carried out as they were interpreted to the people in the last campaign.

The governor had said that he would appoint only such a man; and the man he has named measures fully up to the requirements.

Not a Great Surprise.

After the appointment of Speaker Crisp, no selection which the governor could have made could have given more general satisfaction than that of Colonel Walsh. It was a very great surprise to those who were on the inside, for it was known all the time that the governor had inclined strongly to his friend—the man whom he admires as much as he does any other man in the world. It became apparent that where the governor did not himself make any point on either of the gentlemen from Atlanta who had been suggested, it was not at all probable that he would name anybody from this city. Saturday night the prophets said that it lay between Colonel Walsh and Major Bacon; and it did seem as if the question had narrowed itself down to those gentlemen. The Bacon men were very hopeful, but as soon as the announcement of the governor's decision was received by them they promptly endorsed it and telegraphed Colonel Walsh their hearty congratulations.

The Governor Not a Candidate.

The governor coupled the announcement of his decision with the statement that he would not, under any circumstances, be a candidate for the senatorship for the long term.

"I desire," said he, "again to state as strongly as I know how, that I am in no sense a candidate for the senatorship. I repeat the announcement," said he, "because since Speaker Crisp declined to accept, I have had a large number of friends throughout the state urge me to withdraw what I had said and leave the matter of my possible candidacy in their hands. I am, however, positive in my decision and I hope you will put it for me just as strongly as I am putting it to you now."

Then the governor spoke in most enthusiastic terms of Colonel Walsh.

"He is one of the grandest men I have ever known, big and brainy and capable in every way; a man with a strong grasp on the questions of the day and a man with the biggest heart in the world. He is the most unselfish man I have ever known. Just as an instance of his character, let me tell you of a call he paid me a few days ago. The senatorship is a position to which any man might aspire and as soon as the vacancy occurred, many of his friends had urged Colonel Walsh's appointment. He knew that, and he knew that I loved him devotedly, and that there was his opportunity—a vacancy, with his friend holding the power of appointment. And yet in the face of all those facts, he came to me and said, 'Governor, I know some of my friends have been kind enough to suggest my name to you in connection with this high office, but I want you to eliminate that absolutely from your mind for I am in no sense a candidate. I have come to you in the interests of my friend, Major Cumming, a man whom I know is in every way worthy of the high office, and I want you to appoint him.' That," continued the governor, "shows the character of the man. He has spent his life in working for his friends, and it gives me more pleasure than I can say, to be able to honor him."

Everybody Was Pleased.

The news of the appointment spread rapidly. The friends of other gentlemen who had been named, though disappointed at the failure of their man to be selected, gave their hearty endorsement to the appointment. Hundreds of telegrams of congratulations were sent to Colonel Walsh and many people called on the governor in person to thank him and congratulate him for his decision. Everybody at the senate heartily approved the governor's decision and he received many telegrams from all parts of Georgia on the same line.

The formal appointment, or rather the formal announcement, was made in this telegram:

Atlanta, Ga., April 2, 1894.—Hon. Patrick Walsh, Augusta, Ga.: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch appointing me to fill the vacancy in the United States senate, caused by the death of Hon. Alfred H. Colquitt. Send a messenger to the capital tomorrow to receive your commission.

"W. J. NORTHEN, Governor."

Some hours later the governor received the following from Colonel Walsh:

"His Excellency, Governor W. J. Northen: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch appointing me to fill the vacancy in the United States senate, caused by the death of Hon. Alfred H. Colquitt. I accept the appointment as the highest honor that can be conferred upon me. I appreciate the responsibility that the trust imposes, and will endeavor, by a faithful discharge of duty, to merit your confidence and the approval of my fellow citizens of Georgia. Every measure of reform pledged by the national democratic party will receive my cordial support."

"PATRICK WALSH."

A Sketch of Colonel Walsh's Life.

Patrick Walsh was born in Limerick, Ireland, January 1, 1848. His father and family came to America and settled in Charleston in 1848. He became an apprentice in the Charleston News office at thirteen, and at eighteen became a journeyman printer. He men; he is one of the best fellows who ever lived and I am sure will make a splendid senator."

Walsh's Fidelity Recalled.

"If I had the naming of the senator," said Colonel A. J. McBride, "I could not have pleased myself better. Pat Walsh is a perfect man. His appreciation of his duty to his friends, his obligations to party, his duty as a citizen, both toward his fellow citizens and the state, are of such a high character that but to mention the name of Pat Walsh is to say all of these things at once. Georgia has not within her borders a more devoted son, or one who will more faithfully represent her policies. When he stands upon the floor of the senate, it is the voice of Georgia that will be heard."

"Another thing," said Colonel McBride, "it is fitting that Pat Walsh should have been Senator Colquitt's successor. At the time when Governor Colquitt's whole character was up for decision before a state nominating convention, it was Pat Walsh who became his champion, and in the face of great odds fought the battle out to a finish. Governor Colquitt was re-elected, then went to the senate twice, and his devoted friend and champion succeeded him."

Colonel A. D. Adair, who was seen at the Chamber of Commerce meeting, said: "Yes, Pat Walsh is my idea of a representative Georgian. We can all be proud of him. Judge T. P. Westmoreland, hurrying down the street: 'I am not in politics, but with Walsh in the senate the interests of Georgia will be taken good care of.'"

"I always admired Mr. Walsh," said Dr.

Senator Colquitt's desk has already been gobbled up by Senator Walsh. He will be heard from in the front ranks before two months have passed. Another thing Georgia will have in Pat Walsh will be a senator thoroughly attentive to his duties. She will have a senator who will remain in his place, a senator who will ever be watchful; a senator who will not depend upon pairs, but who will be present to vote, and a man who cannot be purchased with patronage or swayed by threats.

Pat Walsh is the very man Georgia needs in the senate. She needs his quick eye. Come at once Senator Walsh and be sworn in. There is work for you to do here. I asked all the Georgia congressmen in the city what they thought of the appointment. Here is what they said:

Speaker Crisp—A splendid appointment, and Pat Walsh deserved it. No man in Georgia has been more public-spirited; no man has worked more earnestly for the advancement of the state and party. He has filled every position he has ever held to the satisfaction of the people. Mr. Walsh will make a strong senator.

Judge Lawson—An excellent appointment. Colonel Ben Russell—Like it. It is a good appointment. It is a deserving man and a good democrat. A man who has given all his life to working for the party. He can do good work here for he is known as well as any member of the congressional delegation.

Major Black—You know like Mr. Walsh very much. I have just telegraphed him my congratulations. I think Mr. Walsh will make a good senator.

Judge Turner—Pat Walsh is a fine fellow. Mr. Cabaniss—Mr. Walsh is a good man and with experience, will make a good senator.

Mr. Tate—It is a good appointment; Walsh is one of the best fellows in the world. Colonel Lester—It is a good appointment. Nearly every member of the delegation telegraphed his congratulations today.

Telegrams That Were Showered Over the Wires to Senator Walsh.

Augusta, Ga., April 2.—(Special.)—Scarcely had Mr. Walsh been read the telegram from Governor Northen informing him of his appointment to the senate before the wires became freighted with congratulatory telegrams from all sections of the country. It was astonishing to see within how short a time the news had spread, not only through Georgia, but outside and into the neighboring states. From New York and California almost vied with those from Georgia in reaching the hands of the distinguished senator. Naturally those from Georgia came first, preceded, of course, by those from Atlanta. One of the first dispatches to reach Senator Walsh's hands was from Managing Editor Clark Howell of The Constitution, chanced hotly by another from Editor Raper of The Mobile Register. Some of the warmest congratulations received were from old friends in Charleston, who had watched the poor fellow boy who had climbed from obscurity to the proud position of Georgia's honored senator. A few of the telegrams that followed, in order to show the thoughts which moved the minds of Mr. Walsh's friends when they heard of his singular good fortune:

Gainesville, Ga., April 2.—Hon. Pat Walsh, Augusta, Ga.: Northeast Georgia sends greetings. The governor honored the state in your appointment.

W. P. FINDLEY.

Atlanta, Ga., April 2.—Hon. Patrick Walsh, Augusta, Ga.: I congratulate you on your appointment as senator. Trust nothing will prevent your acceptance.

Columbia, S. C., April 2.—(Special.)—Governor Tillman sends this dispatch to the editor of The Constitution:

"Columbia, S. C., April 2, 1894.—Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.: I have no time for any lengthy story now. My side of the situation is that of the executive of a state upholding the laws and suppressing disorder. This I have done in spite of the disgraceful conduct of a part of the militia. Everything is now quiet."

"B. R. TILLMAN, Governor."

Turning to The Constitution representative, the governor continued: "There has not been such excitement and indignation since 1876, when the news was flashed over the state that the United States troops had seized the statehouse the night before the assembling of the legislature—indignation on the part of the inhabitants of the cities, because they have been taught to believe by the newspapers that personal rights and liberties have been invaded and that tyrant Tillman has trampled them under foot—indignation on the part of the country people, because they know it is a lie and that it is simply the old political fight of '90 and '92, which has blazed up, and the dispensary has been taken as a pretext."

"The struggle in South Carolina has been that of democracy against aristocracy of the people against oligarchy."

"The people captured the government and intend to hold it, as they have shown by their actions yesterday and the day before. It is a wonder we got through the campaigns of '90 and '92 without conflict and bloodshed. The victims whose lives have been lost are a sacrifice on the altar of the moloch of whisky."

"More Rigid Than Ever."

"The insurrection is the last expiring agony of the whisky ring. It is to be hoped that the strife will now end and that reason will return to both factions and that in the future we will have one rule—that of law. That's my rule—the only one I have ever tried to enforce—and I shall not depart from my previous record. I will add that the dispensary has come to stay and that the enforcement of this law in the future will be more rigid than it has ever been."

"CHARLES S. NORTON."
Mr. Walsh was taken entirely by surprise for though he had had an inkling that the position would be tendered him, yet there had been so many rumors in the air that he had attached little importance to those coming from the senatorship. After Mr. Crisp had declined the place, Mr. Walsh telegraphed the governor again urging Major Cumming's appointment. He asked Mr. Norton to take whatever friendship he had

JOY IN AUGUSTA.

Mr. Walsh's Fellow Citizens Go Wild Over the Appointment.
Augusta, Ga., April 2.—(Special.)—The news of Governor Northern's appointment of Hon. Patrick Walsh to fill the unexpired term of Senator Colquitt, while most earnestly hoped for, was a great surprise. The people went wild with joy. The appointment receives the endorsement of every citizen.

for him (Walsh) and throw it into the balance for Cumming. This morning when the telegram was received from the governor appointing Mr. Walsh, Mr. Walsh referred it to Major Cumming. Major Cumming insisted on Mr. Walsh accepting the place. The immediate friends of Mr. Walsh had been pledged by him and with him to Major Cumming. But there were others at work for Mr. Walsh. Hon. F. A. Robbe insisted that the appointment be conferred upon Mr. Walsh. This morning Mr. Robbe was asked about 250 soldiers, most of whom are volunteers. It is not probable that Governor Timman will order out any more troops. This morning he received telegrams from Captain R. C. Ward, of the Georgetown company, offering that company's services, and Captain J. B. Floyd, of Lamars, Darlington county, also wired, offering the services of the Ben Ryan Tiltman Guard. The governor is declining all offers of troops now.

This morning Constable Holloway, who has been missing since the trouble at Darlington, turned up in this city. This leaves four more constables still missing. This afternoon news was received here that Chief Constable Gaillard had boarded the Coast Line train at Holliston, near Lanex, and was safe. It was also announced that Swan and others of the missing constables had boarded the train at Brogren, near Sumter.

A well-known Columbia minister who has been at Darlington ever since the first trouble reached there this morning. He details some very interesting facts. He says that after McLenahan was wounded on Friday evening a crowd was organized to go down and knock him out. One white man and one negro got a rope. It was only through the influence of Dr. Norment, the father of the Norment who was killed, that they were stopped. The minister referred to says that the posse went out with no other determination than to catch the constables and punish them. He says that Floyd, one of the men in the posse, was suspected of being a secret constable and came near being shot down by Ed Norment, a brother of the dead man. Some one threw up his gun just in time to save Floyd's life.

Intended to Lynch All.
The minister states that on Saturday when the funerals were held it became current that McLenahan was to be lynched and the body hung from a tree. The mayor of the town went inside the dispensary and remained all night. The mayor had both the dispensary and the jail guard. McLenahan expected to be lynched.

of the Spartanburg Herald, who was largely responsible for influencing the companies of his city to come to Columbia, says in his paper: "We believe the military companies in Columbia, Charleston and other towns are unworthy to be called soldiers, and the editor of the Greenville News is equally plain in expressions which misrepresent the companies and the men who form their rank and file."

Had the Right to Resign.
"It is well enough that it be understood that the Columbia companies knew full well that they were only volunteer troops in an organization from which they had a right at any time to withdraw if they were not satisfied of the organization, rules, orders or commands of the organization. They did not feel that it was their duty in times of peace to obey an order which they deemed unnecessary, and which they believed would bring bloodshed among their own people, and bring within rifle reach brother against brother, and for the purpose of protecting common sense and the sanctity of home or the personal liberty or life of our citizens. That this was the sole purpose of the order is amply proven by the recent refusal of the governor that the troops would not be withdrawn until the missing constables were found and in safety."

Our companies stand still higher, and dated to do as Robert E. Lee did, when, as a lieutenant colonel in the union army, he was ordered to proceed against his own people, he laid down his sword in the face of his then commander-in-chief, and prepared to protect the people on whom he had been ordered to fire. The Columbia companies take the position that they were volunteers in a volunteer organization, and as volunteers they had the right to withdraw whenever they pleased. The time came; the call was made that they go to Darlington and protect spies and murderers."

They were called upon to do an ungodly thing. Duty, the sublime word in the English language, prompted them to repudiate an order which would call for such action on their part. On the contrary they were disposed to lend their aid to the capture and just punishment of those who were guilty of a crime against the people. The soldier obeys orders when, so doing, he believes that he is performing his duty. He declines to obey when he is satisfied that if he does he will wreck his country, sacrifice his manhood and spill the blood of his nearest and dearest friends. Such was the call made upon the citizen soldiers of South Carolina. It was a call to do a crime against the people. It was a call to do a crime against the people. It was a call to do a crime against the people.

APPROPRIATIONS URGED ON CONGRESS

A Committee to Go to the Grain and Trade Congress in Wichita, Kansas. Other Railroad News.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club joined efforts at the meeting held yesterday morning in the hall of the Chamber of Commerce to secure a continuation of the appropriation by congress that gives the people of the Piedmont region of the south the present fast mail schedule between Boston and New Orleans.

It was a commendable spirit that prompted the well known representative citizens of Atlanta to meet for a purpose such as this. The Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club are two institutions that always rally to the demands of the city of Atlanta and the entire region of the southern country.

It is very well known that about a year ago the Richmond and Danville railroad determined to secure for the country a traversing a fast mail from the northeast to the southwest. The officials of the road went before the committee of congress and showed that the south needed such a mail schedule. The Richmond and Danville was given a trial to see if the required speed could be made and after running a special train through on time for several weeks, showing that the road could easily meet the demands of the movement, the committee recommended to congress that the appropriation be made for the mail schedule and the south stepped at once into the enjoyment of such mail facilities as have all along been enjoyed by the more fortunate regions of the north and east.

The Richmond and Danville was handsomely backed up by the Atlanta and West Point railroad, the Louisville and Nashville line of Atlanta and by the Pennsylvania line to the east of Washington and the mails have been speeded to a surprising degree ever since the appropriation was made.

Now that the appropriation is about to expire and there being some danger that it will not be renewed by congress the Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club jointly undertook to have a called meeting for the purpose of petitioning congress to renew the appropriation so that this section could continue to enjoy such mail facilities as are given the north and east.

It was an enthusiastic meeting. The following resolution was introduced by ex-Governor Rufus B. Bullock:

"Whereas, the citizens of Atlanta and of this portion of Georgia are vitally interested in the continuance of the fast mail service now in operation between Boston, New York and New Orleans, via Atlanta, and whereas, this service is dependant upon a continuation of the appropriation which expires in June next, and whereas, the question is now pending before the present congress to be acted on at an early date, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club and business men of Atlanta, That the senators and representatives from Georgia, and hereby are earnestly requested to give their support to the continuance of the fast mail, should it become necessary."

The Grain and Trade Congress.

Another matter of importance came up before the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club. It was the discussion of the coming grain and trade congress to be held in Wichita, Kansas, which will be one of the most significant meetings of commercial men ever before held in the west, and will seriously interest every merchant in Atlanta and this region of the south.

It was decided that the Chamber of Commerce should send a delegation of members to attend the congress, representing the traders of Atlanta, and also that the mayor should be asked to appoint a committee to go representing the city of Atlanta.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, There is to be held a grain and trade congress at Wichita, Kas., April 17th, to seek direct trade through southern ports, therefore be it

"Resolved, That the president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the president of the Commercial Club each appoint five delegates from their respective bodies, to attend said congress.

"Resolved, further, That, in view of the great importance of this movement to Atlanta, the railways centering here and extending to the ports of the southeast Atlantic, that the mayor be requested to send delegates to represent the city."

Complimenting Mr. Walsh.

Mr. Clark Howell moved that before the meeting adjourned a resolution be adopted and sent to Hon. Patrick Walsh, of Augusta, expressing the congratulations of the Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club upon his appointment to the United States senate. Ex-Governor Bullock moved to amend the motion by providing that the new senator be notified by wire. It was adopted amid loud applause.

The Western and Atlantic railroad will change its schedule today. Nos. 1, 2 and 4 will remain unchanged. No. 2, formerly leaving Atlanta at 8 a. m., will leave Atlanta at 8:30 a. m. No. 6, formerly leaving Atlanta at 3:30 p. m., will leave Atlanta at 3:50 p. m. and arrive at Chattanooga at 12:30 p. m. No. 5, formerly arriving at Atlanta at 11:30 a. m., will arrive at Atlanta at 12:30 p. m. leaving Chattanooga at 8 a. m. instead of 9 a. m.

The Marietta accommodation train will leave Marietta 7:25 a. m., arrive in Atlanta 8:30 a. m., leave Atlanta 8:30 p. m., arrive Marietta 6:30 p. m. Dalton accommodation train will leave Dalton 6:30 a. m., instead of 7:20 a. m., as formerly, and will arrive at Chattanooga at 8:30 a. m., returning will leave Chattanooga 4:30 p. m., arrive Dalton 6:30 p. m.

The Nurse's Delight.

Every experienced nurse knows the value of a remedy which, without being an anodyne, will relieve soreness of the joints, stiffness of the joints, and enable a patient to sleep quietly and naturally.

Just such a remedy are Alcock's Porous Plasters. Placed on the chest or on the back, if necessary cut into strips and placed over the muscles of the limbs, they work harmlessly in the way of soothing and quieting restlessness. Being perfectly simple and harmless in their composition, they can be used freely, and many a sufferer has thanked them for a night of quiet rest, grateful both to him and those who care for him. Dr. Brandreth's Pills do not weaken the bowels.

Nickel-in-the-Slot Machine Owners

Paid the Court Costs.

A clean sweep has been made of the nickel-in-the-slot machines, and no longer can the festive nickel be wooed from the pocket of the customer by the pleasant open-faced machines of so much promise. When the wholesale raid was made on the saloon keepers, druggists and tobacco men the gentlemen in possession of the machines decided to have one of the cases tried immediately as a test case.

The case selected was that of H. C. Beermann. The case was argued and in the charge Judge Westmoreland stated to the jury that the running of the machines was in direct violation of the law. Colonel Albert Cox, who, with Messrs. Alex. Meyer and W. D. Upshaw, represented the defendants, made the statement that there were twenty or more other defendants. He said that they had consulted the city authorities and obtained permission from them to run the machines; that they were therefore excusably ignorant of the illegality of such proceedings. He said that they would all enter into a written agreement to dispose of the machines and sign a paper to the effect that they would use no more machines. Colonel Cox also stated that the defendants were willing to pay all the costs, in event the written agreement was accepted by the court. Judge Westmoreland and Solicitor Thomas held a consultation with the result that all the defendants were allowed to pay the costs, including the case that had come to the jury, on the signing of the agreement.

Recover Harris Puts Handsome Rolling Stock on His Road—The Butchers Have to Appear Before the Recorder.

Macon, Ga., April 2.—(Special).—The Georgia State Baptist convention will meet in annual session in the First Baptist church in Macon tomorrow morning, at 10 o'clock. It will be called to order by Rev. J. H. Kilpatrick, D.D., the moderator. The indications are that it will be the largest convention of Baptists held in Georgia in many years. A large number of delegates have already arrived, and many are expected on the early morning trains. About 450 delegates are expected to be in attendance, and many visitors. Homes have been provided for all delegates, and they will be given most hospitable entertainment.

The first day of the convention will be opened with an old-time Baptist prayer meeting. This idea was advanced by Rev. H. R. Bernard, of Athens.

During the session of the convention there will be delivered sermons by some of the most distinguished Baptist ministers in attendance. It is probable that the different pulpits in the city will be given over to the most distinguished Baptist ministers in attendance. In the case of the large Presbyterian convention last year, when the public generally will, no doubt, delight to hear the eloquent visitors. It is understood that a number of distinguished ministers will come from sister states. There will be three sessions a day, morning, afternoon and night, but the hours at which they will be held are to be decided later.

The delegates, during their stay in Macon, will not be without outside entertainment. They will be tendered a reception at Mercer on Wednesday afternoon, and on Thursday they will visit the academy for the blind.

A mild resolution of censure against Russell, by Hon. Pope Barrow, was voted down, and a resolution strongly condemning both Russell's actions and words was passed by the society after Russell had practically refused to withdraw his language.

After the meeting adjourned Mr. West started for Colonel Russell and it was with difficulty they were kept apart. The matter will probably result in a personal encounter.

Savannah, Ga., April 2.—(Special).—Early this morning, after being advised that several Russell's actions and words were passed by the society after Russell had practically refused to withdraw his language.

After the meeting adjourned Mr. West started for Colonel Russell and it was with difficulty they were kept apart. The matter will probably result in a personal encounter.

The Last Session.

The last session of the Georgia Baptist convention, held in Macon in 1872, the session before that held here was in 1876, when the introductory sermon was preached by Rev. B. Tharp, one of the few prominent Baptists at that time who are now living. The Rev. Dr. Tunlin will preach the introductory sermon at this convention.

At the last session in Macon, held in 1872, the Rev. W. N. Cate, missionary to Italy, was present and addressed the convention on the work in that land, which was then just commenced. At the session to be held here commencing tomorrow, Rev. R. T. Bryan, missionary to north China, is expected to be present and give an account of his work.

Mercer Takes Holiday.

Mercer university takes holiday for the three days of the convention in order that the professors and students may enjoy and be helped by the speeches and by meeting representative Baptists from all over this state and from other states.

A number of our ministers have come into the state since the last convention and will be present at this session. There is Rev. E. F. Riley, D. D., professor of English in the State university. He is to state a few months ago from Alabama. Another addition to the Baptist preachers' ranks within the last year is Rev. J. M. Small, of Columbus. He also came to Georgia from Alabama. The pastor of the Baptist church at Greensborough has been at his post only a month or so. He comes to Georgia from Mississippi, and is a brother of Rev. Dr. Gamble, of Mercer university.

One of the handsomest store buildings in Macon is that situated at the corner of Third and Cherry streets, and lately occupied by the large wholesale dry goods firm of M. Nussbaum & Co. It has four stories and a public entry by Mr. Henry Horne and bought by Messrs. Simon Josephson and Sam Meyer for $25,000. The building was started at $20,000 by M. J. A. Small, of Columbus. Johnston offered $25,000 and it finally went to Josephson & Meyer for $25,000. It is not known to what use Messrs. Josephson & Meyer will put the building. Before the sale the building was in the hands of a short address to the crowd of buyers and speculators in which he painted a beautiful picture of Macon's future material growth and substantial development.

WARING RUSSELL ATTACKS C. N. WEST

The County Treasurer Denounces the Well-Known Lawyer and They Scrap Right in the Meeting.

Savannah, Ga., April 2.—(Special).—There was a lively episode at the meeting of the Georgia Historical Society tonight.

Mr. C. N. West, candidate for curator, who was defeated at the February election but afterwards elected to fill a vacancy, made a statement at the time that he had been defeated by a combination formed by Colonel Waring Russell, a well-known and famous politician here.

Colonel Russell read the statement from The Savannah Press to the society tonight and after doing so turned to West, saying: "You knew every statement in that article was false. You lied and you knew you lied when you said it."

West arose and reiterated his statement, when Russell called him a liar before he could conclude his remark.

West then started for Russell and Russell grabbed his stick. The men were kept apart and the language of Colonel Russell was denounced in several speeches as being outrageous, unparliamentary and an insult to the society.

A mild resolution of censure against Russell, by Hon. Pope Barrow, was voted down, and a resolution strongly condemning both Russell's actions and words was passed by the society after Russell had practically refused to withdraw his language.

pronounced tariff reformer. He said he did not believe there was another man in the state as capable as Mr. Turner of rendering valuable assistance to the state and the party at this time, and in consulting with his friends he announced that in case Mr. Turner was appointed he (duBignon) would not oppose him for the long term. This occurred fully two hours before any intimation was received in this city of the appointment by the governor of Hon. Patrick Walsh.

This afternoon Mr. duBignon said his personal relations with Mr. Walsh had always been very pleasant, though he had never agreed with him on the subject of tariff reform.

When asked if he would be a candidate before the legislature, Mr. duBignon said that would depend largely on subsequent developments. That he would be governed by the views of his friends in this and in other sections of the state, and should Mr. Turner enter actively into the canvass, in all likelihood he would not allow his name to go before the legislature. He added that he had said as much to friends of Mr. Turner, and had not changed his views in any measure.

ATLANTA, GA., April 3, 1894.

Senator Patrick Walsh.

Governor Northen, after mature deliberation, has appointed Hon. Patrick Walsh, of Augusta, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Colquhitt.

It is an appointment that will give satisfaction throughout the state.
 An ardent and sincere democrat, Mr.
 Walsh has won more honors than he ever sought, and the honor of representing his state in the senate of the United States, which is not of his seeking, could have fallen on a more deserving candidate. It could not have fallen on a man who will stand more squarely on the platform of the party or represent the people of Georgia.

Undoubtedly, Mr. Walsh will appreciate the honor that is conferred on him and in behalf of the people of his state, but he has not sought it.
 On the contrary, he has insisted that his personal friends refrain from pressing his name and that he preferred that the appointment should go elsewhere.
 Though not an old man—being, in fact, in the very prime of mature manhood—he has reached that age when experience teaches men that offices of trust and profit, no matter how high and honorable they may be, are not the chief aim of a useful life. He feels that as the conductor of a newspaper, he can be as useful to his people as he could be in the senate or in any other office. For that reason he did not give his friends the right to press his name as one who was eager for or even willing to accept the place.

Nevertheless, he will not cast the honor aside. He will accept the place, and will be as true to the people and the constitution as he has been in his position of editor. He stands on the Chicago platform—every part of it. He is a tariff for revenue only, so adjusted as to free the necessities of life from taxation, and he is for making both gold and silver the standard money of the country by opening the mints to both metals without discrimination against either metal. That is to say, as he says himself, he is in favor of the free coinage of silver.

In every essential, Mr. Walsh is a strong man. He is strong intellectually, strong in all those qualities that make a man attractive and powerful.
 In other words, he has all the qualities of leadership, and he has been, since the war, one of the strongest leaders of the party in Georgia. But he has never employed his influence to advance his own selfish interests. With him it has always been his party first and his friends next, with Walsh himself in the background. It need hardly be said that this characteristic fits him to be one of the truest representatives of the people that ever went to Washington.

The new senator has a big head and a big heart. His faculties are evenly balanced. He is true to his ideals in life and in politics, and these ideals are higher than the average politician is inclined to place them.

The appointment of Mr. Walsh gives the public another view of Governor Northen's character. In offering the place to Speaker Crisp the governor showed that he was ready to sacrifice his own worthy ambition to represent the people in the senate. In appointing Mr. Walsh the governor not only recognized the solid merits of one of the ablest party leaders in the state, but rewards the unselfish devotion of a friend. Mr.
 Walsh was foremost, if not first, among those who advocated the selection of Governor Northen as the chief executive of the state, and has always been his warm supporter, both personally and through The Chronicle.

Other things being equal—and they are equal in this case—the people are quick to appreciate the spirit that prompts the recognition of services unselfishly rendered.

The Constitution salutes the new senator and congratulates the people of Georgia!

A Hard, but a Sure Fight.

When the masses protest against the domination of eastern financial ideas it should not be forgotten that the money power has its stronghold in that section.
 The east controls in financial matters because it has absorbed most of the wealth of the country.

As The Baltimore Sun puts it, more than half of all the wealth created in the last century is in the possession of a few tens of millions of men living in the east. The high tariffs, dating from the war. Ten of these tariff-made millionaires hold $800,000,000 of the cream taken from the milk of American industry by the skimmer of protection. More than 1,000 more of them are worth $1,000,000 each, acquired by the same unequal taxation. Over half the wealth of the country is now owned by 40,000 of its 65,000,000 people.

These cold facts show the weakness of the masses of the south and west.
 Concentrated wealth is a power in our politics, and the people may be prepared to see some of their leaders desert them time and again, or be deceived by the promises of the money colossus. It is well to understand the situation as it is. We need not count on an easy victory. It will take a long, strong, united struggle under wise leadership to overthrow the reign of the eastern money power and re-establish the rule of the people. But in the end we shall see triumphant democracy.

Mr. S. M. Inman.

As will be seen from our Augusta dispatches the following telegram was among those received by Hon. Patrick Walsh yesterday:

Hon. Patrick Walsh, Augusta, Ga.—Accept my hearty congratulations. The people of the state will endorse the appointment of the governor, who in all this matter has shown himself a noble and conscientious man. S. M. INMAN.

This is just such a telegram as might have been expected from Sam Inman, whose name has been mentioned among those most prominently urged on the governor in connection with the appointment, and yet at no time was he in the attitude of being a seeker after the position. The suggestion of no name in connection with this distinguished promotion could have called for warmer voluntary approval than that which came from every part of the city in response to the proposition that Mr. Inman would make a most fitting successor to Senator Colquhitt.

While Mr. Inman never sought the position, it is needless to say that he deeply appreciates the many manifestations of personal consideration that have been voluntarily offered from every part of the state, and, indeed, from the whole country. The mere suggestion of his name evoked approval from all sides, and the numerous communications, individual and collective, offered in his behalf, testify to the cordial esteem in which he is held by the people. It was a voluntary endorsement of one of Georgia's noblest sons, who has been deeply honored by the generous praise of the people and who reflects credit on the state in whatever capacity he speaks or acts for it.

Unquestionably Taxes.

According to The New York World, the latest argument against an income tax is that it is "not gentlemanly."

Very naturally this leads to several pertinent questions. Is it more ungentlemanly to investigate a citizen's income and tax it than it is to search his baggage when he returns from Europe?
 Is it any worse than our inquisitorial internal revenue system? Is it more objectionable than our present fashion of taxing a poor man on his consumption of food, fuel and clothing, while the rich bondholder enjoys a big untaxed income?

The new argument may strike a plutocrat very favorably, but plain people will take no stock in it. The fact is, all the methods of our government are ungentlemanly. Etiquette has no place in the administration of our laws. Our governmental machine is as brutal as the car of Juggernaut. It runs over and crushes all who stand in its way.

The sensitive bondholder who considers it an insult to be asked the amount of his income by a tax receiver should remember that in this country, from the cradle to the grave, people are asked all sorts of questions by our public officials. A man cannot go through a case in court, obtain a burial permit, secure a license, be admitted to the bar, take his seat in the legislature, manufacture whisky or tobacco or land at one of our ports without answering, generally under oath, some very searching questions.

It is utter nonsense to object to the income tax on the ground that it is in-quisitorial, or as Mr. Ward McAllister would say, ungentlemanly. The objection applies with equal force to all our taxes and all the methods of our government.

It may be a gentlemanly thing to exempt a bondholder with an income of $100,000 a year from taxation, while his poor neighbor is taxed on his little cottage, but it is also an unjust and an infamous thing.

Concerning the Militia.

Our federal and state constitutions emphasize the importance of maintaining the militia, and our people very generally believe that in times of internal disorder our citizen soldiers may be relied on to preserve the peace.

As a rule, the popular confidence in the militia is well founded, but recent developments in South Carolina will set people to thinking. In that state company after company of citizen soldiers disbanded, rather than obey the orders of the governor to proceed to Darlington to suppress an alleged insurrection. In plain English, the militia set themselves up as judges of the law and the facts of the case, utterly ignoring their governor and commander-in-chief, who, under the constitution, was the only one authorized to decide the question and take action.

It must be admitted that these citizen soldiers had great provocation. They sympathized with the people of Darlington in their resistance to the dispensary spies, but this fact has nothing to do with the principle involved. If the militia of one state may disobey orders and disband because they have taken sides with the people or with a faction, it may be that the day will come when a period of general disorder and turbulence the militia of the majority of the states will refuse to stand by the constituted authorities. In such an emergency the federal army will not be strong enough to cover a large territory and maintain law and order.

The South Carolina soldiers were controlled by patriotic impulses. They would not march against their own people who were defending their homes against spies. But how far will this insubordination extend in future? If the militia may act as the final judges of one question, why not of another?

Viewed from any standpoint, it is impossible to disguise the fact that our militia system is not training up soldiers. The officers and privates cannot forget that they are citizens, and when it suits them they throw discipline to the winds, and stand arrayed with the classes they were ordered to oppose and awe into submission. When the pinch comes, if it ever comes, what will the militia be worth?

We are not condemning the insubordinate militia over the border. We are simply discussing the matter from a military point of view. If our military system trains up soldiers who will obey orders only when it suits their pleasure, then the system is a failure, and we might as well depend upon sheriffs and their possees. This view is worth considering in the light of recent events.

A Democratic Inquiry.

We printed yesterday Mr. Watterson's furious assault on the tariff bill now pending in the senate, and made some comments on it, but we did not touch on the curious omission which the editor of The Courier-Journal makes. He shows how the democrats have drifted away from the platform, but he does not tell his readers where this movement away from democratic doctrine received its impetus—we will not say its authority.

But the matter is very simple. We think Mr. Watterson will agree with us on reflection, that if the party had carried out the financial pledge of the platform when the Sherman law was up for discussion, both the house and the senate would have felt in honor bound to stand by the letter and spirit of the tariff pledge. In fact, they could not have avoided it. To go at once to the very source and origin of the party dislocation, the platform would have been literally carried out by congress if the legislative body and the executive had been of the same mind—if both had stood united on the democratic law promulgated at Chicago.

As a matter of fact there was no unity between them. Congress had hardly met in extra session before the president urged that body to violate the solemn pledge of the platform and direct its efforts to establishing the single gold standard in this country. Now, as the success of democratic doctrine depends on party unity, it was the duty of those who voiced the wishes of the people to speak out plainly on this proposition to violate the platform.

Mr. Watterson did speak out, but he spoke in favor of violating the platform. All his own influence and that of his newspaper was cast into the scale against democratic doctrine and in favor of a clear violation of one of the most earnest pledges of the platform. In discussing the matter with Mr.
 Watterson at the time, we reminded him that this effort to repudiate the platform, if successful, would go deeper than the silver question; but he closed his eyes to all considerations of democratic unity, and urged with great fluency that it was no repudiation of a democratic pledge to substitute for it an opposing policy.

We should suppose that Mr. Watterson would be the last person in the world to make any violent complaint about the violation of the platform or the collapse of the democratic policy. He urged such a violation as soon as it was proposed, and even went so far as to claim that the platform itself provided for its own repudiation. He maintained, and still maintains, so far as we know, that the platform calls for the unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act and for the demonetization of silver. But even if the platform itself were not perfectly clear on this point, Mr. Watterson is experienced enough to know that John Sherman would not favor any measure calculated to make democratic doctrine effective or to strengthen the administration and the party with the people—and John Sherman was as loudly in favor of unconditional repeal in August, when the administration proposed it, as he was in February preceding, when he proposed the measure, and when the democrats of the senate were unanimously opposed to it.

Knowing these things perfectly well, Mr. Watterson was nevertheless anxious to go forward in this dangerous experiment. Day in and day out he urged it, and it was finally carried through. The promise in the platform to substitute democratic legislation for the Sherman act by making both gold and silver the standard money of the country, was utterly repudiated and the necessity of democratic unity totally ignored.

Here was the first serious mistake, the first step toward dividing the party into factions. After that, it was an easy matter to attack the platform in any part, easy to invite the party to a wholesale repudiation of doctrines and promises. We have been for some time at a loss to know why it is right for democrats to carry out John Sherman's financial schemes and wrong to carry out his tariff pledges. We have knocked at several doors trying to get information on this subject, but in every case the inmates seem to be caught with their breeches off, for the only replies that are vouchsafed us are in the shape of some smothered and incoherent remarks about "international conference," "purity" and so forth.

The inquiry remains unanswered, and yet there is no reason why Mr. Watterson should not seize an early opportunity to inform us why it is wrong to violate the tariff pledge of the platform and right to repudiate the financial pledge. Sooner or later this inquiry will have to be answered by the democratic leaders and they might as well begin to frame a simple and satisfactory explanation.

Meanwhile, we say again that it is not too late for the democratic leaders in congress to embody the whole platform in satisfactory bills and present them to the president. In performing this duty they will restore democratic unity and shift the responsibility for democratic action from their own shoulders.

A Good Man's Evil Past.

Last year when the Christian Endeavor convention was held in Atlanta, there was not a more eloquent and influential worker in that body than Colonel H. H. Hadley, of New York.

The colonel impressed everybody as an earnest Christian reformer, and as one who knew him best still hold to that belief. But he met with a shock last Friday night which was startling enough to demoralize almost any man. He was presiding over a mission meeting, when a middle-aged, black-eyed woman pushed her way to the platform, and pointing her finger at him said:

"It has been nineteen years since we met,
 and I come as a voice from your past.
 You told me that you were a Christian, a young girl who is a Christian, is dying in a house in Lexington avenue, not from starvation, but from shame that you alone are responsible for."

Silent and motionless as a statue,
 Colonel Hadley stared at the woman.
 Then a storm of hisses aroused him.
 Facing his audience he made this manly confession:

"As you see, ye shall reap. That which has occurred tonight has been expected year after year—ever since I entered mission work. Seven years ago, when I was converted in the mission in Avenue A and was invited to take charge of the mission, I told those who should know about this sin of my past, believing that it would be a barrier when I came to the altar. But what was prevailed upon that God had then chosen me for the work. And so I now believe, looking back over my mission work, that I have never sinned with the woman who was here tonight followed me to New York from Cincinnati twenty-six years ago. I met her while sewing my way out to be a woman. It has been, as she has told you, nineteen years since we have met."

The astonished listeners turned to look at the accused, but she was gone. The services then went on without interruption.

Speaking of the matter afterwards, the colonel said that all the blame rested upon his head. He had wronged a woman when he felt called to his field of missionary work, he did not propose to masquerade as a good man. He begged the public to condemn him and to think kindly of his friendless victim.

Perhaps a converted and reformed man was never more severely punished for the sins and transgressions of his past. Shakespeare said: "The evil that men do lives after them; the good if it is interred with their bones."

It will be borne in mind that The Constitution has remarked on more than one occasion recently that Senator Colquhitt's success as a politician was due to the fact that he never sinned with Senator Colquhitt.

Something or other was sent silver up a cent on our cotton and wheat also show an upward tendency. Maybe it's Walsh.

It is a mistake to suppose that John Sherman is a democrat on the silver question. Democrats who are employing his arguments should bear this fact in mind.

Can the cuckoo prevail on either of the candidates for governor to endorse Mr.
 Cleveland's seigniorage message? We'd like to see 'em try.

The democrats in congress cannot do better than to open the spring season with a free coinage bill.

Georgia has again got one senator who will not speculate in sugar.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Euclid avenue, Cleveland, O., which is already widely famed as the finest residential street in the country, is to be still further improved in the suburban portion by widening to 100 feet, under the provisions of a recent act of the legislature. In the center will be the electric car tracks, with a broad grass plot with trees on each side, separating the cars from the carriage roads. These are twenty feet wide and bordered on each side by a row of hitching posts. Between the hitching posts and the sidewalks there will be on each side of the street a wide bicycle path three feet wide. Then comes another grass plot five feet wide, and finally the sidewalk of the same width. Each half of the street will be exactly the same.

The London quack has succeeded in frightening Queen Victoria and the prince of Wales. The two are guarded by detectives, and the prince no longer shows himself in public. The old freedom, the queen nervous and uneasy all the time.

Herr Johann Most, the apostle of anarchy in this country, has just written He thinks there is no hope for the glorious cause of anarchy in America, and in a four-column screed in his paper, The Freiheit, advises his adherents to believe in the more hopeful fields of Europe. Says he:
 "Turn your backs upon this accursed country to continue your labors in Europe, even if you have to travel over the ocean in cattle ships or in coal bunkers." He says that he would go himself if he only knew where he could go without finding himself behind prison bars. It is hardly to be supposed that Most expects his followers to take his advice seriously, as he would hardly care to be left without a constituency, but if they would, the country would be glad at their departing, and would doubtless be willing to provide them first-class passage.

The Worcester Spy, in an appreciative editorial on Senator Colquhitt, says: "Many persons have been deceived by the success of the senator in the autumn of 1887, when, as president of the Atlanta cotton exposition, he made the concluding speech of opening day. Few who have placed their eyes upon the exhibits in which he said: 'I now declare this great exposition open, and, in behalf of the management, of the people of Atlanta, I declare this exposition open.' At the moment there were but three exhibits in place. The timber for two of the buildings afterwards erected was still standing in the forests. More than two hundred cars loaded with exhibits were straggled on the various railroads entering the city. Knowing all this, and believing that out of the chaos order would soon be evolved, and that the exposition of the vast resources of the south that would eventually be made would astonish the world and open the way to marvelous development, the governor boldly uttered his challenge, and in less than a month the sanguine expectations were realized."

JUST FROM GEORGIA.

Prose Up in Billville.

JUST FROM GEORGIA.

We're all froze up in Billville; the corn an'
 wheat is lost;
 The ground's too stiff fer plowin', an' the furrow's full o' frost;
 The water's got to freeze in the well, an' an'
 in the cup.

An' we spend the time a-sneezin' an'
 a-playin' seven-up;
 We're all froze up in Billville; ain't a bit o'
 work to do;
 We're a-huggin' of the chimney while the blaze is burnin' blue;
 The outside world is freezin', but the corn is in the cup;
 An' we spend the time a-sneezin' an'
 a-playin' seven-up.

Chorus of Spring Poets.

No matter how the weather goes,
 We sing!
 No matter how the blizzard blows,
 We sing!
 If the world will only listen,
 Though a hundred icebergs glisten,
 We will sing!
 It's springtime, and we know it,
 So we sing!
 I'm business with a poet,
 Though it's blowing and it's snowing,
 Though the crops are killed a-growin',
 We must pay the bills we're owing—
 So we sing!

Making the Best of It.

Cold breeze jes' a-blowin'
 From the north to the night;
 All the birds a-goin'
 An' the fish too froze to bite!
 Not a chance fer fishin',
 Though the lakes was lookin' nice;
 All the trees a-swishin'
 With their green leaves full o' ice!
 But what's the use in cryin'
 'Bout the weather south or west?
 While it's takin' time fer dryin',
 We're a-takin' of a rest!

To Grace Carey Sheldon.

(of Buffalo.)
 Come down from the mockin'birds a-makin' of a row!
 I'm mighty, mighty sorry, but they ain't a-singin' now!
 The cold's done killed the music an' we've only got the words;
 An' the birds that's now a-singin' is them caged Canary birds!
 But the cold won't last forever, fer we'll have a change o' scene,
 An' the clouds'll take on color, an' the trees'll grow to green;
 An' fer all that now you're missin', you kin come an' hear 'em sing;
 An' when the sweet birds find it out, I bet you that they'll sing!

—FRANK L. STANTON.

The top of the mornin' to Senator Pat Walsh, an' God give him more an' increase his store!

The Georgia Mockingbird.

He listens when the others sing;
 He knows 'em by name;
 Then whistles his bill an' shuts his wing
 An' beats 'em at their game!

If those Chicago newspapers continue to grow up with the city, after awhile it will require a couple of special freight trains to carry their Sunday issues.

Nothing Unusual.

"Man shot at the editor today."
 "That's nothing; editor's been 'half-shot' for a week!"

Here is a chunk of wisdom from The Stewart County Hopper:
 "The Georgia Mockingbird, whose brevity is not only the soul of his wit, but whose soul in this respect would be a great deal shorter, if they'd chop off the brevity a little shorter, and quit just before they begin."

That's Right!

It ain't a "wilderness of wool."
 "Unies" we idly sit there;
 The motto of the world is, "Go!"
 An' that's the way to get there!

In retiring from The Cochran Telegram Editor A. J. Moore indites this original valedictory:
 "If my successor is content to wear a suit as sumptuous as mine, and to smoke wishes, he may in the remote hereafter score a success in the newspaper business in this town. With grateful thanks for the few favors received, I gladly retire."

He Wanted the Earth.

Investor (new town)—I don't see many advantages here?
 Land Agent—You don't? Why, there's a fine grade for a railroad, a site for a water-tank, a corner for a postoffice, a place for a moonlight distillery, pine trees enough to build a church, an' a mill pond fer baptis-tism!

NORTHERN AND CRISP.

Athens Banner. By the appointment of Speaker Crisp to the senate Governor Nor-then showed himself possessed of splendid judgment and by his announcement that he would be no candidate himself for the senate he evidenced the fact that he has the interests of Georgia so deeply at heart as to sacrifice personal ambition and splendid chances for the purpose of leaving

HIS PEOPLE MOURN.

Douglasville's Citizens Shocked by Professor Callaway's Suicide.

DIED IN THE ARMS OF HIS FRIEND

Mrs. Callaway Scream as Her Husband Ran to Seize the Pistol with Which the Fatal Shot Was Fired.

Douglasville, Ga., April 2.—(Special.)—A bullet fired at dead of night, under circumstances of a most tragic and unusual character, furnished its sequel this afternoon to the largest funeral procession Douglasville has ever known. The bullet ended the life of Professor J. H. Callaway, a son of one of Georgia's noblest and oldest families—a family that has furnished the state many of its choicest teachers and ministers. Professor Callaway was himself a distinguished educator and a gentleman of high character. That he should die a suicide's death staggers the comprehension of those who knew him. The tragedy has shaken Douglasville as it has never been shaken before.

Professor Callaway came here three years ago from Clinton, Ky., where he was the head of Marion college, a superb institution. He was brought here through the persistent work of District Attorney Joe James. He was a son of Dr. Morgan Callaway, the venerable minister and professor at Emory college, and a brother of Dr. Morgan Callaway, who was the head of Texas. He had a charming wife who was formerly Miss Malley, of Albany. Professor Callaway at once came to the very front of things here. In all public enterprises he was the leader. He was a devoted member of the Methodist church and was chosen superintendent of the Sunday school of that denomination. It is no exaggeration to say that he was the best beloved man in all Douglasville. Speaking of him today Mr. Joe James said: "He was one of the finest men I ever knew and the last one I would think who would commit suicide. He was a man of remarkable strength, mind and lovely character. He seemed to enjoy life thoroughly."

The consternation created in Douglasville on Saturday when it was announced that he had committed suicide at 1 o'clock that morning was not exaggerated. Business was practically suspended, hundreds of people gathered at Professor Callaway's home, and nothing else was talked of. The amazement of the Douglasville people was intensified a hundredfold when it was remembered that the afternoon before he was on the streets in his most excellent spirits.

The details of the suicide as related by Mrs. Callaway and Professor W. A. Easley, who saw the deed, disclosed an exceedingly dramatic story. Professor Callaway shot himself while in the arms of Professor Easley. Professor Easley has been boarding at Professor Callaway's since they came here together three years ago. He is a handsome and intellectual young man of thirty and was associated with Professor Callaway and was associated with Professor Callaway at Clinton, Ky. He occupied a room adjoining that in which Professor Callaway and his wife slept. A door connected the two rooms and Professor Easley says he was awakened about 1 o'clock on Saturday morning by hearing one of the rooms violently thrown open and by a lady's screams. It was Professor Callaway who dashed in. A moment before he was lying quietly in bed talking with his wife. Being sleepless, he awoke and asked for some Jamaica ginger. After that he conversed with Mrs. Callaway a few moments. Suddenly he leaped out of bed, his eyes starting wildly and the nerves of his face twitching convulsively. In a single moment he had been transformed into a madman. He burst furiously into Professor Easley's room adjoining. Mrs. Callaway sprang out of bed screaming with terror. On the mantel in Easley's room was a revolver and this she heard her husband pick up.

"Don't let him do it! Don't let him do it!" she screamed. Professor Easley sprang out of bed and threw his arms about Professor Callaway. There was the briefest sort of struggle and after the smallest part of a minute, the pistol fired. Professor Callaway sank back heavily upon Professor Easley and a stream of blood poured down upon Professor Easley's clothing. Professor Callaway was stretched upon the floor and Dr. Whiteley was sent for.

In a few moments all Douglasville was awake. No such scene had ever been witnessed here before. The coroner's jury found that he came to his death from suicide while temporarily insane.

Nothing has been talked of except the suicide since Saturday. The funeral occurred this afternoon and 2,000 people followed him to the grave. Two hundred school children marched in line. Dr. Warrick conducted the funeral services and his effort has rarely been equaled. Talks were made by Mayor James, Joe James, Professor Easley and others. Tomorrow morning a mass meeting will be held to take suitable action on the death. The citizens of Douglasville cannot speak of the tragedy without tears. Professor Callaway held the hearts of these people as no other man. The afternoon before he killed himself he played with the children going home from school and was in a fine humor. That night after dark he called on a young couple that had just married and indulged in many little pleasantries of speech, as was characteristic of him. There is an absolute absence of any motive for suicide, save that attributed by the coroner's jury—temporary insanity. Never before did he show the slightest symptom of insanity, but, on the contrary, he was of clear mind, and several weeks ago made a talk to his pupils in which he designated suicide as self-murder. His life in Douglasville has been entirely without reproach, and not a single incident of it was sufficient to induce melancholy even. Mr. Joe James says he has discussed the subject of suicide with Professor Callaway, and he was emphatic in his characterization of it, not only from a religious but from every standpoint. Mrs. Callaway is prostrated over the tragedy, and has been unable to leave her bed since Saturday. It has been feared that the shock would impair her mind. All Douglasville and vicinity were at the funeral this afternoon. Tonight they have been gathered in knots upon the streets discussing the calamity.

Growth in knowledge is the only cure for mental pain. In Hood's Sarsaparilla is a sure cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, loss of appetite and that tired feeling so prevalent in spring.

A QUIET SESSION

Held by the Evangelical Association Yesterday Morning.

The regular meeting of the Evangelical Ministers' Association yesterday morning at the First Methodist church was largely attended. The following were present: Dr. E. H. Barnett, the president of the association, called the meeting to order. Rev. T. P. Cleveland performed the duties of secretary.

The meeting was void of special interest although a number of important religious matters were transacted.

Rev. L. B. Davis introduced a resolution urging the mayor to appoint a day in the future to be observed for general fasting and prayer, which was not adopted.

Rev. C. P. Williamson, in behalf of the committee appointed to consider the matter of customs to be observed at funerals on the part of the officiating clergy, asked that it be adopted.

After prayer by Dr. Thirkield, of Gammon institute, the meeting adjourned.

WHAT IS SPIRITUALISM?

The Principles Underlying This Important Branch of Religion.

The question has frequently been asked, what is spiritualism? What are the peculiar views entertained by this important sect? A prominent member of the church has furnished the following terse, but the statement added that all true believers adhere to the fundamental doctrines herein contained:

Atlanta, Ga., April 2, 1894.—Editor Constitution: You will please publish the following and oblige many friends.

W. G. F. I. We, spiritualists, believe in an infinite, all-wise and all-powerful spirit, eternal with matter, by seeds of dust, called "souls," or "Jehovah," and by the controlling spirit speaking through Jesus "Our Father, who art in heaven."

We believe in Jesus, of Nazareth, the spiritual medium—our Elder Brother, who went about doing good.

We believe in the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the spiritual body.

We believe in spiritual gifts and in a rational religion "at home with good works."

We believe in rewards and punishments, but situated on the life beyond.

We believe that spirits and angels can aid and communicate with mortals.

We believe in the final happiness of all mankind, by and through endless progression.

REVIVAL AT TRINITY.

Interesting Services Were Inaugurated.

The religious war has reached the city and during the next few weeks, a number of revivals will be held.

Trinity Methodist church last night an important series of gospel meetings was commenced which will be protracted as long as the services are warranted.

The meetings will be held every night this week beginning promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Imitation is the Sincerest Flattery.

Why is Pearl-line the mark for every soap powder, or so-called washing compound, which is brought out? Everything is called "the same as" or "as good as" Pearl-line. None of them say "better"—they can't. They should not say "as good as"—they are not. The simple fact that Pearl-line is so largely imitated would be enough to prove it the best.

And when a poor washing compound can do so much damage, do you want anything but the best? 369 JAMES FYLE, N. Y.

GRIER'S CAPTURED.

The Old Almanac to Be Hereafter Published in This City.

BOUGHT BY MR. C. J. SHEEHAN

The Almanac Has Been in Existence for Nearly Three-Quarters of a Century. A Splendid Piece of Property.

An important trade which has just been consummated is that of the sale of Grier's almanac to Mr. Cornelius J. Sheehan, of this city.

This publication, which is one of the oldest in the country, has been in existence for nearly three-quarters of a century. For many years the almanac was published in Macon, Ga., by Messrs. J. W. Burke & Co. Recently, however, the publication was transferred to New York city, although its ownership remained unchanged. Mr. Sheehan has made a fortunate investment in the purchase of this excellent and time-honored piece of property.

The main office for the almanac will be Atlanta, as this is the boyhood's home and residence of Mr. Sheehan; but a branch office will be established in New York city.

Judge Bartlett's Order.
An order for the sale of the almanac was granted by Judge Bartlett, of Macon, Ga., last Friday.

This was directed to Mr. E. W. Burke, as the receiver for Messrs. J. W. Burke & Co., and the trade with that gentleman was closed by Mr. Sheehan on last Saturday afternoon.

There will be no delay in moving the headquarters to this city.

Mr. Sheehan Interviewed.
Mr. Sheehan was seen by a representative of The Constitution yesterday afternoon in regard to his purchase of the almanac.

"I intend to keep up the high standard which the almanac has heretofore held and to make it even more popular, if such a thing is possible, with the farmers of the country. As far back as I can recollect Grier's almanac has been the favorite in this section. I have known farmers, at a time when the almanac was scarce, to pay as high as 50 cents and $1 rather than be without an issue of the almanac during the year. I intend to see that the high prestige of the almanac is maintained."

"How soon will you move the headquarters for the almanac to Atlanta?" was asked.

"As soon as possible," said Mr. Sheehan. "There will be no unnecessary delay. The almanac was purchased on a cash basis and I will send on my check for the full amount of the consideration tomorrow morning."

"When will the edition of the almanac for the present year be issued?"

"At the usual time," he replied, "about the 1st of February. With the exception of a change in the ownership there will be no further alterations made either in the dress or annual appearance of the publication."

Mr. Sheehan is one of the cleverest and best young financiers in this city. His father, the late Cornelius Sheehan, was one of Atlanta's pioneer citizens and one of the most substantial men of the community.

Mr. Sheehan has resided in Atlanta since his birth and is a product of the public school system of this city. He graduated with distinction from the City High School in 1882 and since that time has rapidly forced his way to the front as a young business man.

For two or three years Mr. Sheehan was connected with the firm of A. C. Wylie & Co., prior to the dissolution of that house. For the last eight years he has been connected with the drug establishment of Mr. John B. Daniel and is now the credit man of that establishment, which is one of the largest in the south.

Size of the Last Edition.
The edition of Grier's almanac for last year was perhaps the largest quantity of almanacs published for general distribution in the history of the world.

In this connection the following data, furnished by Mr. Sheehan, will be interesting:

If they were all piled one upon another they would make a pile four and a quarter miles high. If they were laid upon the ground end to end they would make a line 450 miles long, reaching across the states of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

If the separate pages could be laid in line there would be enough to extend around the entire United States, and from Florida to the great lakes in addition. One hundred and thirty thousand pounds, or sixty-five tons, of paper were used in the edition.

It has been issued continually for more than sixty years and is read by over 10,000,000 people in this country.

A valuable acquisition to Atlanta, therefore, is the purchase of this almanac, and the purchaser has not only made a good investment for himself, but for the whole community.
